

track 14 weather forecast

Good morning. The first thing we are going to look at is the (1.). We have a little (2.) that is moving across Hispaniola and down into the central portion of the Caribbean. (3.) we are going to see anything develop right now, but (4.) that we're going to watch as it moves across the warmer waters of the western Caribbean. That's an area you look for to see any type of tropical development.

Nothing really (5.) in Gulf of Mexico (6.). We still have a bit of rainfall in the forecast for the (7.) going into Monday. Temperatures will be still warm.

You'll see (8.) across (9.) and (10.) in the deserts southwest.

Temperatures in (11.) will be kind of nice, you'll see (12.) for the most part there.

(13.) will be 30s and 40s westward with 60s and 70s staying on the map in the east.

And tomorrow more of the same even though you will see cooler temperature as (14.) slides through. It will be a little bit cooler in places like Wichita and Des Moines.
